| Inflicts 5D6 S 1 hits.        |             |                 | Affects all nonfleeing friendly units within range. If cast, all units will immediately make a move straight forward following the rules for Random Movement (D6+1). |             |                 |

Is cast on the Wizard itself. The Wizard may summon one of the following Monsters: Ghorgon, Jabberslythe or Chaos Giant. Immediately place a model representing the beast, with its base touching any table edge. This model is effectively part of the Beastman army from that moment on. Every time the beast suffers a wound, the Wizard that summoned it must make a Toughness test. If this is failed, the Wizard takes a wound too, with no saves of any kind possible. If the Wizard is killed, the beast wanders back into the forest and is immediately removed from play (it counts as being killed for the purposes of victory conditions etc.). Note that the beast cannot be voluntarily dismissed by the Wizard, or dispelled by the enemy in following rounds. In addition, only one monster may be summoned by the same Wizard at any one time.

Targets all enemy Cavalry, Monstrous Cavalry, Chariots, ridden Monsters as well as War Beasts/Monstrous Beasts/Monsters with Mixed Unit within range. All affected models will suffer a number of hits equal to the A characteristics of their mount(s), using its S. In the case of Mixed Units, only the handlers are targeted, and only by models in base contact (in the case of Skirmishers, calculate this as if the models were ranked up in combat). Any armour save bonuses from the beast's Natural Armour, barding etc, have no effect.
